

Landlocked Lighthouse (Locked House Hauntings Book 2)

Shed never won anything before in her life, not even a lousy two bucks from a scratch off. So winning a massive lighthouse mansion at an auction for mere pocket change seemed like the score of a lifetime. It meant a fresh start for her and her family. Who could say no to that? Her first warning was its location. Who builds a landlocked lighthouse with no water in sight? Then came the photographs, containing mysterious red scribbling that seemed aimed at her. But that was surely impossible. She should have known it was too good to be true. Now the demons of her past have caught up to her, and this time they're out for blood. It's a race against time to solve the mystery of this dream home turned nightmare because, if she fails, her children will pay the ultimate price for her sins.
